The annual expenditures by Europe upon military and naval purposes, according to a recent English publication, amount to nearly $38,675,000,000, while the total of the national debts of Europe reaches the astounding amount of $24,-313,057,658. to revel in amazing figures, we may state that statistics show that 53,000 wells have been drilled in Pennsylvania and New York since the discovery of petroleum, at a cost of $200,000,000. These wells have produced 310,000,000 barrels of oil, which was sold at the wells for $500,000,000. This represented a profit to the producer of $300,000,000. The amount of oil exported is placed at 6,231,102,923 gallons. In the pool in Washington county alone $3,200,000 has forty years' old and as she drew rein bebeen expended in machinery and drilling. ## THE OUTLAW'S RUSE.

-W. De Witt Wallace, in Current

I have knocked about a good deal in my time, from doubling Cape Horn as a sailor to digging gold as a miner, and closest escape I ever had from death was with my eyes wide open and through my own stupidity. Early in the seventies, I was down in the Indian Territory buying horses for shipment East. I had a partner, and we traveled with our own her." team in a covered wagon. ## Cowboys Lassooing a Bear.

Last week all the Unaweep cowboys ere on the round-up at the head of the Dominguez, says a recent issue of a Mesa County (Col.) paper. They had just finished moving camp, and Mac Thomason and Moses Moffit were riding along on their bronchos toward their new quarters. They had arrived within a mile of the camp when they discovored a black bear in the brush. They at once started off in pursuit of bruin and chased him up a tree. They determined to capture him, and, although totally unarmed, save their lariats, succeeding in doing so. They first cleared away the underbrush from around the tree so they could loose their lariats, and at once commenced the work of roping him. They roped him several times, but bruin would, with his fore feet, throw the rope off as quickly as it fell to his shoulders. Finally Mose Moffit succeeded in fastening him, and putting his horse in motion dragged the bear from the tree. As soon as he fell Mac Thomason was ready with a club to disnatch him, which he did with a few heavy blows across the head. The boys then went into camp, where they told their adventure to their comrades, and then securing knives went back and removed The bear, when dressed, weighed 250 pounds and was about two years old.

Care of Knives and Forks. To keep knives and forks in good con dition, wipe them as soon as possible after being used, as the longer they are left with stains on them the harder they will be to clean. After cleaning, put them into a vessel of hot water and wipe dry with a soft flannel cloth. It is a good plan to rub the steel parts with a flannel dipped in oil, letting it remain on for an hour or so and then wipe dry. Another method is to dust the blade and prongs with quicklime finely pow-dered, wiping in an hour or two and wrapping them in a flannel cloth. This restores their polish in part. Never let

California's Gold Product.

California has made such rapid strides for the last few years in agriculture, viticulture, and kindred pursuits, that gold mining has been, to a great extent, lost $1,000,000. These are large figures. But sight of, and the idea has become quite this has become a country of large figures prevalent that this had ceased to be a and affairs. gold-producing State, except in a few localities and in limited quantities. It was, of course, well-known that the entire gold product of California had been enor ous, the figures being something over $740,000,000, but there was a belief that gold mining in California was "played

But some recent statistics show that those who mourned the decadence of the gold mining interests of California, and sighed for the good old times of '49 or thereabouts, based their calculations on erroneous or insufficient data. California still leads all the States in the yield of gold, being credited last year with $19,720,000, as against $4,450,000 for Colorado, $4,425,000 for Montana, and various lesser amounts for other States and territories. The total production of gold in the United States last year was $34,860,000, of which California furnished considerably more than half.

San Francisco Chronicle. Canine Appreciation of Watermelon A hairy, fat man in a duster which the perspiration had glued fast to his back, was eating a watermelon at a corner stand. Now and then he tossed a piece to a fat hairy dog that squatted beside him, and the dog always caught it in his mouth and swallowed it. "Dogs," said the fat man, while another melon was being cut, "imitate their masters. You can teach any dog to eat what you eat your self. That dog eats all kinds of vegetables and fruit, and drinks tea, coffee and beer. My wife says it's a disease, but it s simply common sense. He knows that what won't hurt me won't hurt him, and it must be good, or I wouldn't take it.

"Will he eat pickles?" "No," replied the fat man, with withering glance, "No, more will I. They're the unhealthiest invention ever was made. Here, Prince!"

And he and the hairy dog fell to work on the second melon.—New York News.

How Gold is Shipped to Europe. When one recalls the millions upon nillions of dollars in gold that annually seek Europe to provide for the necessi ties of our import trade, the question of how gold is shipped to Europe becomes a curious and interesting one. of America, writes a New York correspondent of the Globe-Democrat, is the largest single shipper of gold abroad. Shipments are made in stout kegs, very like the ordinary beer keg. Every one contains $50,000 in coin or bar gold. The latter is the favorite for these shipments, since the government has permitted the sub-treasury to exchange for coin gold, as coin in $1,000,000 shipment is liable to a loss by abrasion of from eight to twenty ounces, from $128 to $320; and the bars only lose about three-fourths of that amount. coin is sent double eagles are preferred. They are put in stout canvas bags, each bag containing 125 double eagles, or $5,000, and ten bags fill each keg. About the only precaution taken against tam-pering with the kegs is a treatment of the keg ends, technically known as "redtaping. Four holes are bored at equal intervals in the projecting rim of the staves above the head. Red tape is run through these, crossing on the keg's head, the ends meeting at the centre, where they are sealed to the head by the hardest of wax and stamped with the consignor's name. The average of insurance is about $1,500 per $1,000,000. Then there is an expense of $2 a keg for ing and cartage aboard ship, or $200 for the same sum; and the inevitable loss by abrasion, whatever it may prove to be There are great Wall street firms shipping from $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 an-Some of these have insured nually. themselves, and assert that the saving has been sufficient to replace the loss of

Are constantly exposed to danger from Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, and diseases peculiar to the throat and lungs. For such ailments, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, promptly administered, affords speedy relief and cure.

As a remedy for Whooping Cough, with which many of our children were afflicted, we used, during the past winter, with much satisfaction, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For this affection, we consider this preparation the most efficacious of all the medicines which have come to our knowledge.—Mary Parkhurst, Preceptress, Home for Little Wanderers, Doncaster, Md.

AN APACHE RAID.

WHITE MAN IN HIS RANCH.

The White Man's Brave Defense The Redskins Hastily Withdraw After Losing Three Out of Their Number.

A recent letter from Tucson, Arizons the New York Sun says: Old Jef ampson, whose ranch was in the track taken by the last gang of renegade Apaches, came into town this week, thereby proving that the general belief that his hair had been raised on the raid was unfounded.

Jeff escaped the red raiders, but he had a close call. In fact, he came in to have an Apache bullet dug out of his thigh. He did not know the Indians were off the reservation, and their appearance in the vicinity of his ranch was a surprise. He and a man named Watkins were out looking after cattle one morning when they saw nine Apaches come out of an rroya upon the mesa not more than five hundred yards away. It required but one glance to satisfy Jeff that the redskins were out for mischief, and as there was no cover behind which to fight with any ance of avoiding their bullets, he yelled Watkins to go for the ranch, and dug is heels into his broncho's flanks. The Apaches yelled and followed, and a race or life began.

Sampson's ranch is an adobe house, surounded by a stockade corral, and once nside he could stand off a bigger band of Indians than the one at his heels. It was five miles to the corral, and the white men's horses were not in the best condition for such a race. The Indian ponies gained on them gradually, and as the $8,851,935 were collected; the First Onio, range decreased, the Apaches opened fire. their bullets went wide of the mark unshoulder blades, and he pitched from lected. the saddle dead.

In the house he was all alone, but he had arms, ammunition, and plenty of food and water, and was confident that he could stand a siege if the band should not be re-enforced. He tied a suspender around his thigh and twisted it with a stick to stop the bleeding, keeping an eye at the loophole to be prepared for tricks. The Apaches rode around the corral, whooping and yelling and looking for a weak spot. Sampson held his Winchester ready and waited for something to turn up. In a moment there was loud whooping on the north side of the corral. Sampson did not pay any attention to that. He watched keenly the south side, and something turned up there. The heads and shoulders of two painted scamps turned up over the stockade. They stood up in their saddles and so reached the top. Jeff turned the Winchester loose, and one of the pair fell to the ground with a broken shoulder. The other disappeared unharmed. Then Jeff jumped to the north window and clipped the ear of a gentleman from San Carlos who was getting over the

AGRICULTURAL.

Box Stalls for Horses. The stable for the horse should be of good size. The narrow dimensions of many of the stalls are a positive cruelty to horses. They are built too narrow to enable the horse to extend his limbs when convenient. He is compelled, when in a recumbent position, to double his limbs up under him, and his legs are thus kept cramped, when they should be completely at rest. Box-stalls permit the animal to choose its position and change it at pleasure. Comfort is essential to health, and it is evident that the animal can not be comfortable when closely tied in a narrow stall. The stalls should be kept clean, and the floor daily sprinkled with some good absorbent, as gypsum, to absorb the foul odors continually arising. Absorbents are not generally used freely enough about stables. Besides having pure air for the animal to breathe, a stable that is stored full of hay and grain ought to be kept well ventilated, and kept clean, that the impurities of the air may not penetrate these. All food should be kept as pure as possible. Cleanliness about the stable is just as important to the health of the horse, as cleanliness about the house is important to the health of the family. - American

Summer Fallowing.

The practice of summer fallowing, now so prevalent in many Northwestern sections, is claimed by many to actually add to the richness of the land. This is supposed to be so because larger crops are grown upon lands so treated. "Are not these larger crops due," asks the Minne-sota Farmer, "rather to the fact that constant stirring has so pulverized the ground that it is placed in a mechanical condition suitable for the grain sown on it to more completely absorb the elements required for their growth, and, there-fore, while producing larger crops the sooner exhausted? Summer fallowing without manure will eventually become a broken reed for the farmer to lean upon. A judicious rotation is far preferable. Some intelligent farmers claim that they have thoroughly tried summer fallowing to get rid of weeds, and that as a means o accomplish that purpose it is a flat allure. The plan has its merits, but at best it must have the important objection urged against it that one year's crop is unavoidably lost while the interest on the investment, the taxes and time go right on without a let up. Still, it has been a practice in old agricultural countries for hundreds of years, and has done ashes for the chickens' dust-box. Pretty country homes are becoming more common than they used to be. There is a growing determination on the part of farmers not to wash the wool on sheep. Farmers complain that the English sparrow destroys the buds of fruit trees and bushes.

Those who feed bran to horses largely are most in favor of it, according to F. D. Coburn. Colonel F. D. Curtis suggests that 'more 'come bossy,' and less 'get around there,' will fill the pail." The horse that works in the long, hot days wants a dry shoulder and a clean collar, says Stephen Powers.

The willow, elm and poplar figure among the most troublesome of trees for filling up drains with their roots. Cut out the canes of raspberries that have borne fruit this year and stake up the canes for bearing next season. Sawdust and lime make a very tough, firm, enduring plaster, which can be used to much advantage in patching walls,

The farmer who leaves expensive implements exposed to the weather is usualy one who finds that "there is no money in farming.' An expression of opinions at a recent meeting of farmers developed the fact that most of them inclined to cut hay when in full bloom. On rich land it always pays to sow clover with orchard grass, as they ripen about the same time, and the orchard grass will hold the clover up. This is an old rule. A crop of fodder corn is not only a useful resource in time of drouth, but, as the American Dairyman suggests, "ex-cellent for ridding the ground of many troublesome kinds of weeds."

One part corn meal, two parts bran, two parts of ground oats, one part ground meat, one part of middlings, a little bone meal and salt scalded and fed early in the morning, is reported a good egg-producing food. Mr. S. M. Palmer says: "When one of your team horses is more tender in the mouth, and especially if a little the slower, make his lines two or three inches longer than the faster horse and they will travel much evener." To have a good turnip patch the preparation of the land should begin early. No crop grown requires more thorough fixing of the soil or heavier manuring. The turnip feeds voraciously, and seldom is enough manure used. It is claimed that corn, clover and other crops are now generally allowed to pass the succulent stage and come nearly to maturity before putting them in the silo. The advantages are that they contain more nutriment and the smaller per cent. of water allows the heating to reach a higher point. Dwarf peas seldom afford more than one picking, though they come early. The fall varieties require more labor (and sticking), but they afford several crops, and do not ripen all the pods at the same time. Seed for a late supply may be planted even as late as now, but the crop will not be heavy. Young turkeys do not thrive in confinement. Wandering about seems necessary for their development. Damp is fatal to them. They should be kept fastened up till the early dew is off, and then allowed to roam. Chopped green food, especially onion tops, mixed with soaked bread, etc., will make them

Procure new crop turnip seed and have the ground fine. The rows may be wide apart, so as to allow of working with the ultivator. The ground should be as fine as an ash-heap. Drop the seed in small clusters, about six inches apart in the rows, as the insects will often de stroy young turnips. If too thick when up they can be thinned out. Too much fine, well-rotted manure cannot be used on turnips. Do not put turnips on ground occupied by corn the previous year.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

Krupp owner of the great German iron foundries and gun works are curious:

It was a standing order to all those who surrounded or approached him that the word "death" was never to be mentioned or referred to in conversation within the precincts of his great estab-lishment. Some years ago a relation of his wife's came to stay with him, and was taken suddenly ill and died. When Krupp heard of it he fled immediately to the neighboring town of Dusseldorf, and would not return until after his relation had been duly buried. This very naturally led to a scene with his wife, the result being they separated. Mrs. Krupp went to live in Dresden, and not even the entreaties of their son prevailed on Herr Krupp to see her before he died. The same stubbornness was shown by him when his son Fritz, who contested the parliamentary borough (Essen) at the last general election in the interest of the Government, was defeated by the ultra "clerical party." Herr Krupp issued an edict that no employee should take into his cottage or read the local papers of the Ultramontane party. A few days after this edict a poor workman being found wrapping up his "Butterbrod" in a sheet of this journal was instantly dismissed.

HEN LICE

For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, Shrubs, Trees, I pound or half the contents of a $1.00 box of "Roven on Rars" 'Agricultural Size) to be theroughly mixed with one to two barrels of plaster, or what is better air slacked lime. Much depends upon thorough mixing, so as to completely distribute the poison. Sprinkle it on plants, trees or shrubs when damp or wet, and is quite effective when mixed with lime, dusted on without moisture. While in its concentrated state it is the most active and strongest of all Bug Poisons; when mixed as above is comparatively harmless to animals or persons, in any quantity they would take. If preferred to use in liquid form, atable-spoonful of the full strength "Rough or Rars" 'Powder, well shaken, in a keg of water and applied with a sprinkling pot, spray syringe or whisk broom, will be found very effective. Keep it well stirred up while using. Sold by all Druggists and Storekeepers. 18c., 28c. & $1.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull leavy headache, obstruction of the say headache, obstruction of the nasa sasages, discharges falling from the head to the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, backing or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians.

By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh." Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting," THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2002 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At timezzi could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckly, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure-remedy for catarrh now menufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and

ELI Ronaus, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty." EXHAUSTED VITALITY
